Heritage Achievement Award - Community Initiatives Don Brayford (posthumous)

Installed in 1989, the Beast is unique. On the hour, it rears up, front legs fluttering, and tail beating the air. A labour of love created by Don Brayford, the Beast took several years to build. It was made using local recycled materials, and brought alive by a Commodore computer linked to 54 hydraulic valves, giving it motion. Westminster chimes rang out from a household clock, amplified to two speakers from within the statue. Recently updated by clockmaker Ray Saunders, the Beast is a testament to human ingenuity, and to a community that allows individual spirit to flourish.

Residential Heritage Award

Mike and Sue Cizik's home is proof of the couple's commitment to heritage conservation. They relied on the Maple Ridge Museum and the Historical Society to research its original look. They have acquired photos, images, and advice, which they have used in their design. Through this process, they have been respectfully restoring their home for several years. The house still stands in its original location.
